

The Fatherhood Project At Sequatchie Valley Head Start

Head Start's underlying mission is doing what's best for children. Research has consistently shown that the involvement of both parents is best for children — even if the father does not live with the child.

Research has also shown that other male figures (father figures like a grandfather, an uncle, or an older brother) can also be effective in providing the supportive interaction that children need.

Head Start should take the lead in recognizing the importance of fathers and father figures in the development of children.

Please use this form to record the significant male figures in the child's life.
